KEY WORDS : VALUE – EDUCATION- NEED

INTRODUCTION

How might you characterize your qualities? Before you answer this inquiry, you really want to know what, as a rule, values are. Your qualities are the things that you accept are significant in the manner you live and work. They (ought to) decide your needs, and, where it counts, they're likely the actions you use to let know if your life is turning out the manner in which you need it to. At the point when the things that you do and the manner in which you act match your qualities, life is normally great - you're fulfilled and content. In any case, when these don't line up with your own qualities, that is when things feel... wrong. This can be a genuine wellspring of despondency. Therefore putting forth a cognizant attempt to recognize your qualities is so significant.

We should understand that this course of significant worth weakening will demonstrate sad and lead to deterioration of the general public. It is the perfect opportunity in this way for us to ascend to activity and put forth cognizant attempts to alter the course and lead to the correct bearing. Since days of yore it has been perceived that schooling is essentially a course of teaching values to assist the student with having a decent existence that is fulfilling to the person as per the loved qualities and goals of the general public. Rationalists, profound pioneers and educationists play underscored the part of schooling for character advancement, drawing out the inert possibilities and innate characteristics and creating coordinated character for the prosperity of the individual and the general public at large. This requires an intentional push on values in our schooling and more extreme and deliberate instructive activity for the development of values.

VALUE

*Values are characterized as the respect that something is held to merit; the significance, worth, or helpfulness of something; standards or norms of conduct; one's judgment of what is significant throughout everyday life. - THE ROLE OF VALUE EDUCATION AND ITS NEED

Esteem arranged training implies teaching in the youngsters a feeling of humanism, a profound worry for the prosperity of others and the country. This can be achieved just when we ingrain in the youngsters a profound sensation of obligation to values that would assemble this nation and take back to individuals pride in work that brings request, security and guaranteed progress. Through esteem training we like to foster the social, moral, tasteful and profound sides of an individual which are much of the time sabotaged in proper schooling.

The principle point of significant worth arranged training in schools ought to be to make the understudies productive members of society with the goal that they might share their responsibilities regarding the advancement of the country. Understudies ought to likewise have the option to get the public objectives of a majority rules government and secularism. They could foster themselves to be valuable countrymen and persistently make progress toward their inward turn of events.

The Education Commission (1964 - 66) commented, „This is affecting the personality of the rising age and it has, along these lines, become important and critical to embrace measures to give a worth direction to education“. The National Policy on Education (NPE), 1986 record has given the accompanying defense for esteem schooling:

- 1) The developing worry over the disintegration of fundamental qualities and a rising skepticism in the public arena has brought to concentrate the requirement for rearrangements in the educational program to make training a powerful instrument for the development of social and virtues.
- 2) In our socially plural society, instruction ought to cultivate widespread and everlasting qualities, situated towards the utility and coordination of our kin. Such worth training ought to assist with wiping out obscurantism, strict zeal, viciousness, strange notions and passivity.
- 3) Apart from this aggressive job, esteem instruction has a significant positive substance, in view of our legacy, public objectives and all inclusive insights. It should lay essential accentuation on this viewpoint.

Instruction, as we probably are aware, is a course of achieving helpful changes of conduct in the student - in the manner in which he thinks, feels and acts as per our idea of good life. All in all, it is a course of creating in the youngster information, abilities, mentalities, values and ways of behaving that we consider alluring for him to have, both as an individual and as a citizen.

The different objectives and points of instruction - improvement of HR, innovativeness, obligation to human qualities and civil rights, public union, logical attitude and autonomy of psyche and soul, communism, secularism, a majority rules system - are something like instructive articulations of our idea of good life.
